

TANYA TUCKER HOSPITALIZED WITH BACK INJURY

Tucker Postpones 3 Tour Dates

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (January 11, 2017) — Tanya Tucker is recovering in a Texas hospital after she fractured her L1 vertebrae (left side at the bottom of her spine) and sustained an injury to her rib during a recent fall while on her North American tour. While receiving treatment, Tucker was also diagnosed with bronchitis and is receiving breathing treatments and physical therapy.

While this is a serious injury, Tucker will not have to undergo surgery, but her recovery will be a very slow and painful process. As a result, three shows will be postponed. She's in great spirits and released the following statement:

"We've been having a blast with the band and fans on the road and I'm so mad this happened. I was really looking forward to seeing all the Okies and fans in Kansas this week, but we have to postpone the shows. I'll do my very best to make it up for y'all. Let's hope for no more accidents this year and I look forward to a great 2017. " -Tanya Tucker
